spanish horror film is the first in depth exploration of the genre in spain from the horror boom of the late 1960s and early 1970s to the most recent production in the current renaissance of spanish genre cinema through a study of its production circulation regulation and consumption the examination of this rich cinematic tradition is firmly located in relation to broader historical and cultural shifts in recent spanish history and as an important part of the european horror film tradition and the global culture of psychotronia this volume is the first english language collection exclusively dedicated to the study of genre in relation to spanish cinema providing a variety of critical perspectives the collection gives the reader a thorough account of the relationship between spanish cinema and genre drawing on case studies of several of the most remarkable spanish films in recent years the book analyses the significant changes in the aesthetics production and reception of spanish film from 1990 onwards it brings together european and north american scholars to establish a critical dialogue on the topics under discussion while providing multiple perspectives on the concepts of national cinemas and genre theory in recent years film scholarship has attempted to negotiate the tension between the nationally specific and the internationally ubiquitous discussing how globalisation has influenced film making and surrounding cultural practice these broader social concerns have prompted scholars to emphasise a redefinition of national cinemas beyond strict national boundaries and to pay attention to the transnational character of any national site of film production and reception this collection provides a thorough investigation of contemporary spanish cinema within a transnational framework by positing cinematic genres as the meeting spaces between a variety of diverse forces that necessarily operate within but also across territorial spaces paying close attention to the specifics of the spanish cinematic and social panorama the essays investigate the transnational economic cultural and aesthetic forces at play in shaping spanish film genres today consists of english translations of articles in the spanish american press
